

Proclamation

Whereas, Wyoming Writers, Inc., is a group of writers, for writers, and by writers with a love of the written word, involved in creative endeavors and a desire to do what Wyomingites do well—lend a helping hand when needed, celebrate successes and milestones together, and shoulder up when members have trouble standing alone; and

Whereas, Saturday, June 3, 2017 marks the first full day of the 43rd Annual Wyoming Writers Conference; and

Whereas, in recognition of the growing local arts community, Gillette has been chosen by Wyoming Writers, Inc. as host city; and

Whereas, Prairie Pens, the oldest surviving literary organization in Gillette, has been chosen as host writing group; and

Whereas, this event will attract and bring writers from throughout Wyoming and surrounding states.

Now therefore, be it resolved that I, Louise Carter-King, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the City of Gillette, County of Campbell and State of Wyoming, do hereby proclaim June 3, 2017 as:
